Motet: Welcome, sweet and sacred feast GERALD FINZI (1901-1956)

Welcome sweet and sacred feast; welcome life! Dead I was, and deep in trouble, But grace and blessings came with thee so rife, That they have quickened even dry stubble Thus souls their bodies animate And thus, at first, when things were rude, Dark, void and crude They, by thy word, their beauty had, and date; All were by thee and still must be Nothing that is or lives But hath his quick'nings and reprieves As thy hand opes or shuts: Healings and cuts Darkness and daylight, life and death, Are but mere leaves turn'd by thy breath. But that great darkness at thy death When the veil broke with thy last breath Did make us see The way to thee. Was't not enough that thou hadst paid the price And given us eyes when we had none, but thou must also take us by the hand and keep us still awake, When we would sleep, Or from thee creep. Who without thee cannot stand. Was't not enough to lose thy breath and blood By an accursed death, But thou must also leave To us that did bereave thee of them both, these seals the means that should both cleanse and keep us so, Who wrought thy woe? O rose of Sharon! O the lily of the valley! How art thou now, thy flock to keep Become both food and Shepherd to thy sheep

(Stand as the thurifer approaches to cense the congregation; remain standing until the end of the Sanctus.)
